Meet the needs of today's workforce

Great workplaces understand the key to building a thriving culture is by supporting their employees through their journey in life and at work. As the modern workforce look to their employers to support their personal needs as much as the professional, organisations are forced to reevaluate the role of workforce mobile technology has as part of the employee experience.

Available in the Apple App Store® and Google Play™ store, the UKG Pro™ mobile app provides employees access to their information and workforce tools wrapped in an intuitive experience where employees feel supported, motivated, and productive. As they grow and thrive, they have the potential to drive amazing outcomes for themselves — and your organisation.

Convenient and secure

Biometrics and facial recognition login offers a convenient and secure experience that provides peace of mind while using the app. Employee data on the mobile device is safeguarded with built-in encryption and data synced with Pro is encrypted in transit.

Engaging user experience

Empower employees with access to essential employee information, manage schedules that fit their personal lives, and connect with teammates and the company.

Real-time notifications

As updates and changes are made between the app and browser, employees and managers are notified instantly so they can review and take action in the moment.

Empower employees with self-service

Enabling ownership of their work, employees and managers can feel engaged and empowered with self-service features that meet their personal and work needs such as:

- Checking employee information
- Clocking in and out
- Confirming schedules for upcoming shifts
- Managing time off requests or shifts with teammates
- Approving timecard for payroll

A great mobile experience is just one way organisations can positively impact the employee experience

Build an inclusive culture where everyone feels like they belong

As organisations shift to a long-term hybrid workforce model, the importance of collaboration tools and employee communications is paramount, especially for increasingly remote teams and a frontline workforce.

Through the Pro mobile app, people can interact with each other, join and create employee resource groups (ERGs), and make their voice heard with pulse surveys naturally driving employee engagement as they connect with their teammates and the company.
